

Vol 21 no.9 April 2018

Celebrating a Century of Service, Fellowship, Scholarship and Community
Since 1919

FROM YOUR PRESIDENT

April is our last membership meeting of the year and it looks like it will be a great one! Our speaker, Melissa Forgey, is the Executive Director of DeKalb History Center. Her talk will include stories about our own Houston Mill House!

Don't forget that we will be voting on the slate of officers for next year. If you can't make it to the meeting, you can vote using the ballot located in this newsletter.

We hope that you will join us for the annual Spring Luncheon on May first. It is one of the highlights of the year, and our annual celebration of a member who has exemplified our club's values.

Although we will take a summer recess, you can stay connected though Tuesday Tastings and our interest groups. Keep a look out in your in box for Tuesday Tastings.

Looking forward to seeing you at the meeting.

Dee Zesiger and Lex Gilbert

Dear members,

Lex is compiling a list of contacts at local newspapers and at Emory publications so that we can send them articles about our centennial.

If you get a local paper, please send Lex contact information for the editor. Many of these publications are looking for feel-good stories and we can write an article about EUWC for them.

In most cases you can see who and how to contact them, often on the second page.

Lex is also looking for contact information for Emory publications, like Emory Magazine, Emory Medicine, etc.

Please email her any contacts that you can find or bring her copies of the publication at one of our meetings.

We'd like to take advantage of our 100th birthday to make more people aware that we exist and of the good work that we do.

Thank you!

Lex Gilbert

Share the Care with the Emory University School of Nursing Migrant Worker Program

This meeting is our last of the 2017-2018 year. Let's make it a big one with a bounteous donation to the School of Nursing's Migrant Worker Program. This is an annual event for nursing students who go to Mountie, Georgia, and provide basic nursing hygiene to migrant worker families. Hygiene kits are provided to the individuals. If you didn't receive the previous email with the specific list, contact Alma Owens, 770 712 1561 or alma@owensemail.com. Checks can be made to Emory University School of Nursing Migrant Worker Program.

At the end of each year we review our beneficiaries and ask you for input. If you have information about the needs of current beneficiaries or other agencies who are in need, please contact me. If we add an agency we will need to drop one.

Your generosity has made this a wonderful year for Share the Care. Thank you so very much.

GLOBAL VILLAGE PROJECT

Many of us have become more finely attuned to the needs of the immigrant/refugee community, especially through current events and our involvement with the Amani Women's Center.

Recently, I attended an Author's Tea -presented by the students of the Global Village Project School for Refugee Girls housed in the Decatur Presbyterian Church on Sycamore St.

The program was an innovative integration of, music, drama, dance, and literature. Even more remarkable is that most of the performers have had very few or disrupted educational opportunities as they have endured displacement forcing them from country to country in search of a stable home.

Currently there are 45 students, ranging in age from 11-17 who come from 12 different countries and who speak more than 17 languages. Many of them reside in Clarkston.

Typically, they have been in the USA for 3 years or less when they enroll in the GVP school. As you can imagine, they need immersion in English as well as the chance to advance to a learning level appropriate to their ages.

Volunteers are active in the classrooms and serve as tutors. As students move on to high school and college, they need a community of support provided by mentors, many of whom have previously served as volunteers. More are always needed. To learn more about becoming a volunteer or mentor, go to volunteer@globalvillageproject.org or contact Teni-Ola Ogunjobi, /Community Engagement Associate at (404)371-0107 or at taogunjobi@globalvillageproject.org
